Wall Street's Funeral
Unhulled Sweet Clover
New Champion Cow
To Live 1,000 Years? No

— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1921.

The funeral procession still winds its dreary way up and down Wall Street, pausing at intervals to bury a low record price for some stock or mourn the passing of a dividend. Tire stocks weak, rubber stocks weaker, steel stocks very weak, motor stocks tottering—that's the story.

We are not selling to Europe because millions there are not buying. And in asinine fashion we now bar out European immigration, thus keeping away millions that might come in and consume goods here on the spot.

Leaving that sad Wall Street funeral, which hasn't half finished its journey toward the lone tomb, here's a suggestion for farmers.

Try sowing UNHULLED sweet clover seed on your old pasture next January. In the Genesee Valley a farmer raised sweet clover for seed, had a lot left over, not passed through the hulling machine. The unhulled seed was thrown on a worn-out pasture. The next spring the sweet clover was knee high.

Many farmers in the valley are now sowing unhulled sweet clover in the late Fall. Country weeklies please tell farmers about this experiment. It means labor saving, the best kind of fodder and soil enriched by nitrogen that sweet clover takes out of the air.

Be sure to sow the seed NOT HULLED. Hulled seed thrown on the ground would be killed by the frost.

Two other farm items. In one Maine county farmers dumped forty-five thousand barrels of potatoes to be plowed under as fertiliser—no market.

Bella Pontiac, champion cow of the world, owned by Mr. D. A. Barron of Brantford, Ont., in the past twelve months has produced 27,107 pounds of milk, which yielded 1,537.75 pounds of butter. Think of producing more than your own weight in milk every fourteen days. Breeding pays.

George Bernard Shaw writes a book, "Back to Methuselah." He thinks that in the year 3192 men will live a thousand years. But they will not, luckily. Shaw says modern men never live long enough to do any good. That's a mistake. They live as long as their brains are ready for new impressions and able to create new ideas. About the time they think they know everything nature wisely gets rid of them. Think of a million men, each a thousand years old, as well satisfied with themselves as Bernard Shaw. Could anything be more horrible? Eventually men will live from 140 to 150 years, for each mammal should live ten times as long as it takes to reach the reproductive age. When we live longer we shall probably think longer.

The convict ship Success is again exhibited in New York. You may see her dungeon cells, without ventilation or light, her whipping posts, punishment balls, manacles and strait-jackets. When those things were used there were 145 capital crimes on the English law books. And all that SEEMED PERFECTLY RIGHT AT THAT TIME.

There are things that "seem perfectly right" to us that in a few years will also be hard to believe. For instance, twenty-five thousand mothers die in this country every year in childbirth, tens of thousands of children die in their first year—and "a lady's anti-suffrage association" opposes the suggestion that government should spend money to save those mothers and their children. That's worse than any convict ship.

Labor is discussing its plans at Denver. Mr. Lewis, president of the mine workers, is for government ownership of railroads and other things. Furuseth, able leader of the seamen, and Tobin, president of the teamsters, denounce government ownership. No perfect harmony there. Labor disagrees with labor. Capital always agrees with capital. Therefore, for some time to come, you will find capital running things. It never quarrels with its brothers.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has put off the dividend on stock of the Panhandle, leased to the Pennsylvania for 999 years. In 999 years there won't be any Pennsylvania Railroad or Panhandle. There will be no cars running on four wheels. A very primitive, wasteful contrivance. Only the heaviest loads will travel on the earth's surface, most of them on canals. All passenger travel will be by air except for very short distances. Three-quarters of the people will live on hill and mountain tops, now uninhabited.

Many such rooms, furnished and unfurnished, find frequent offering in the Want Ad columns of The American. Scarcely a day goes by but something of the sort is to be found.

Best of all, the accommodations thus offered are always among the most desirable in Boston and include all good locations.

One is almost certain to find here exactly what he wants, in the desired neighborhood, and at the price he wants to pay.

It is simply a matter of attention to the columns in question and perhaps making assurance doubly sure by a "Room Wanted" ad stating requirements.

The latter serves an excellent purpose when one desires some special accommodations. In such cases, simply put these requirements on paper and leave with a great navy as Senator Poindexter, who is in charge of the Senate bill, try to get some slight consolation from the fact that in conference they did succeed in adding some $18,000,000 to the totally insufficient appropriation made by the House bill, but it is but cold comfort.

The fact remains that the Senate, having added in round numbers about $100,000,000 to the House appropriations, has been forced in conference to surrender all but $18,000,000 of this increase.

ESTIMATES NOT LAVISH.

There was nothing lavish about the original Senate estimates. They were prepared by a Republican majority in committee who had ever in view the promise of their party for economy. They were ready to carry this economy even into the naval estimates—where it is not economy at all, but most perilous extravagance.

But even so, moderate as were their figures, they were overborne by the House which has lopped more than $80,000,000 off of appropriations that were barely sufficient for the navy's maintenance with scarcely a provision for growth.

LLOYD GEORGE DIFFERS.

The very day that our newspapers carried the news of the slashing of our naval expenditures by the conference committee we read of Lloyd George declaring that any possible limitation of armament cannot be carried to sea-power. On that he holds the very life of the United Kingdom, as also of Australia and New Zealand indeed "of the whole empire."

We have our dependencies no less widely separated from Washington than are the British colonies from their home capital.

But Great Britain is going to protect its scattered children in the only way possible, namely with a mighty navy. We are to get ours from Lodge.

Does that seem an overstatement?

Our naval problems having to do with outlying dependencies will arise mostly in the Pacific. What has this Congress done to make us formidable in that ocean, which will inevitably be the scene of future naval wars?

GUAM ITEM DROPPED.

The most important forward step proposed for naval development in the Pacific was the plan for the establishment of a base at Guam.

Naval officers, schooled in strategy and of the highest professional attainments, have declared the fortification, absolutely essential to our control of the Pacific. But in the contest between House and Senate this item has been dropped altogether from the bill.

NO HOUSE OPPOSITION.

It is probable that the completed report of the conference committee will go to the House by Tuesday of next week. No opposition is expected there.

But it is easy to see how some unforeseen obstacle might prevent immediate consideration. The fiscal year closes June 30. This fact will be used to hasten action, and to avert possible amendments in the direction of larger appropriations.

In short, the naught is presented with the spectacle of legislation of absolutely incalculable importance being rushed to enactment because prolonged delay in committee has exhausted the time for deliberation.

This is being done not yet quite consummated but narrowly approachable consummation by this Republican administration and Congress in the name of economy.

These facts, and they are facts, are well worth setting out even if the present policy of hamstringing the navy shall be given effect. For there will be other congresses and the men who are perpetrating this deed will not sit in them.

alleged burglar who was caught, is at the Municipal Hospital in Cambridge having a bullet extracted from his arm.

Patrolman William Odell of the North Cambridge station had several stitches taken in his head, where he was struck with a jimmy.

Odell was attracted by sounds in the drugstore of George M. Olive, No. 1865 Massachusetts avenue, North Cambridge.

Entering by a cellar door he went up the stairs to the store and groped in the dark for the desk telephone.

A man darted by him down the stairs, out and across to the railroad tracks. Odell followed firing. The man escaped.

As the officer made his way back to the store he saw a colored man looking out of a window.

Again he entered the store, got the telephone, and called Station 4 for help.

As he did so the negro sprang at him from behind a desk, shouting "I'll kill you."

The struggle took the men all over the store. The robber reached into a rear pocket and drew the jimmy, striking Odell with it. Blinded with blood, the policeman drew his gun and fired, hitting the negro in the arm.

Williams, a physical giant, though only sixteen years of age, continued the struggle after he had been shot. The men were still fighting when police reinforcements arrived. Williams was held in $1,000 for hearing tomorrow in Juvenile Court in Cambridge.

ALLEN ON TRAIL OF 'BROWNIE'

further specifications and to get depositions from a person or persons in New York.

It is reported the Attorney-General will reveal more names in his new specifications.

Allen did not specify the person or persons from whom he expected to get the new and important depositions.

It has been stated, however, that "Brownie" Kennedy of Mishawum Manor fame, the woman in the $100,000 extortion plot charge, which is the outstanding allegation in the case on Tufts, is in New York.

It was believed today that it was her deposition the Attorney-General wished to get before proceeding.

Melvin M. Johnson, chief attorney for Tufts, announced that when in a week of the filing of the new specifications he would have filed Tufts' answer and be ready to proceed.

That would bring the actual opening of the unprecedented legal battle on or about July 6.

Coincident with the beginning of the conference, it was discovered that one new lawyer has already been enlisted for the Tufts defence and that another probably has been or is about to be added.

David Greer has already joined Melvin M. Johnson and was at the meeting today.

Fletcher Rantoul, one of the best known attorneys in Boston, was also at the meeting, and it was reported he was ready to enter the case as one of the counsel for the defence.

Chief Justice Rugg came from his home in Worcester for the conference at the Suffolk County courthouse.

Present, beside the Chief Justice and the lawyers for the defence, were Attorney-General Allen and Special Assistant Attorney-General Henry F. Hurlburt, Tufts' actual prosecutor.

TWO GIRLS DROWN IN THE MERRIMAC

Lowell, June 24—Wading together into the Merrimac river, at Tyngsboro, Maude Sheehan, 23 years old, and Hazel Bixby, 19 years old, both employes of a Lowell department store, got beyond their depth and were swept to death.

Mary Hewson and Mildred Desrochers, also of this city, fellow campers, obtained a boat and attempted to rescue the other young women, but the victims had disappeared when they reached the spot.

Here Is What Judge Fox Said About Levenson

Following is the text of Judge Jabez Fox's denunciation of Attorney Harry E. Levenson of Boston in the case of David H. Brand, who sued the lawyer to secure the return of money paid Levinson on representations that Levinson would secure him from punishment on a serious charge made by Frances G. Klubock.

Levenson is now under charges of extortion in Attorney-General Allen's fight against District Attorney Tufts.

"The defendant (Levenson) and his associate attorney began at once to work upon the plaintiff's (Brandt's) fears," adds Judge Fox, "in order to get his money. They told him there were three serious charges against him and that on one charge he could be sent to prison for twenty years.

"On September 12, 1919, the paternity case was heard in the lower court and the plaintiff was found guilty and appealed. Up to that time the plaintiff had paid to the defendant (Levenson) $7,500 in cash and given in addition a note for $2,500, payable in weekly instalments of $100 each.

ADMITTED ACCUSATION.

"On September 17 the plaintiff paid to defendant $100 more. All these payments and the giving of the note are established by the defendant. But the defendant entered no appearance for the plaintiff in Superior Court, and the result was that the plaintiff having received no notice was defaulted and two officers came to his home at 5 o'clock in the morning, arrested him in the presence of his wife and children and held him in custody until 9 o'clock the next morning, when he was released on bail.

"The plaintiff had lived in Boston in the same house for six years, and had an established place of business. The defendant had learned from the plaintiff that his wife had property. He admitted on the stand that his failure to enter an appearance for the plaintiff in Superior Court was intentional, and when asked whether it was because he believed his client guilty or because he had not yet been paid enough money, he answered, 'both reasons.'

"The fair inference from all the evidence is that the defendant deliberately subjected his client to the risk of arrest and exposure in order that he might force him to yield still further in his extortionate demands. But the end had come. The plaintiff at once secured other counsel and through them settlement of the case.

"The plaintiff is entitled to a return of all the money he has paid to the defendant, the return and cancellation of the note and cost."

BANS FUTURIST ART ON HER DOORSTEPS

Here is a lady, a house-owner by the way, who does not appreciate futurist art and she is being aided and abetted in her protest for normalcy by the Boston Rent and Housing Commission.

Yesterday she complained to Administrator Herbert Ellis that a tenant, whose aesthetic taste even descended to such common affairs as a flight of front steps, had painted the offending stones pink and red.

She explained to Mr. Ellis that she did not object to the color pink or to the deeper shade, but she did object to the alternating character of the work. One step pink, then one red, and so on, was too much for her.

Constituent Ellis agreed with her. "You have my permission to paint the stone all red, all pink or all blue," he decided.

MRS. STILLMAN DEMANDS DR. RUSSELL SURRENDER PAPERS

OSTEOPATH ACCUSED OF TREACHERY

Attorneys Send Agents to Canada for Deeds Used by Banker Against Beauvais

New York, June 24.—Dr. Hugh L. Russell, stout, soft-voiced osteopath of Buffalo, in some manner has obtained and made use of certain papers belonging to Mrs. Anne C. Stillman.

This charge was openly made yesterday by attorneys for the woman. Two representatives of Mrs. Stillman, it was announced, are in St. Maurice Valley, in Canada, seeking to recover the documents.

Most of these relate to land purchased by Mrs. Stillman in 1919 through Fred K. Beauvais, then superintendent of the Stillman Summer camp. They are in the possession of a Canadian attorney. Investigators for Mrs. Stillman have just learned that Dr. Russell is a nephew of this attorney.

In addition to the dispatch of representatives to Canada, Mrs. Stillman has made a personal demand upon Dr. Russell for the return of the papers. In addition to narrating confidences that passed between herself and his patient, Mrs. Stillman, the osteopath, it is alleged, worked actively in "assembling evidence" for use against the defendant.

OPTION IN GUIDE'S NAME.

At one hearing Russell told of an option taken out upon land adjoining the Stillman estate. This was taken in the name of Fred Hawkins. The Stillman forces have sought to make it appear that this gave clear indication of intimacy between the guide and Mrs. Stillman.

The accused wife's attorneys declare that Russell's testimony were based upon information furnished in the documents entrusted to him. Already outraged over what they assert was "unprofessional conduct" on the part of the osteopath, the defense lawyers assert the new revelations of Russell's "duplicity" is likely in itself to injure.

Russell is said to have sought to create the impression that the option was taken on land by Beauvais as an indication of a gift of valuable property by her to Beauvais. As a matter of fact, the land by Russell and the extended option on the land in 1919, acting on a hint dropped given him by Mrs. Stillman. The final deeds are all in her name.

HINT POLICE ACTION.

Agents of Mrs. Stillman are very much incensed over the use to which they allege the "confidential papers" were put. Should the documents be not delivered promptly to Mrs. Stillman it is hinted the matter may be laid before the authorities.

In this connection an amusing bit of by-play in which Dr. Russell figured at the adjourned hearing two weeks ago Tuesday, became known. Counsel for Mrs. Stillman's lawyers asked an adjournment on the ground of her ill health.

The banker's attorneys objected and suggested dispatching a physician to Mrs. Stillman. Dr. Russell proposed E. Mack, guardian ad litem for little Guy Stillman, pointed toward the robust osteopath and said smiling:

"There is a doctor over there. Suppose we send him?"

GLAD TO TREAT HER.

Without an instant's hesitation and with no apparent appreciation of Mr. Mack's humor, the osteopath said softly:

"Yes, I would be glad to treat the lady."

Everyone smiled and Mr. Mack added:

"I'm afraid Dr. Russell wouldn't come back, though, and we'd have a wake instead of a court hearing."

Mrs. Stillman is preparing to ask for an absolute divorce. This was learned from one of the highest sources of authority in the celebrated case, and may be accepted as an indication of the confidence with which Mrs. Stillman is facing the resumption of the hearings in the banker's suit next week.

Model's Eleven Fiances a Broadway Mystery

Virginia Lee, former show girl in the "Greenwich Village Follies," who has promised her hand in marriage to almost a dozen young men, each of whom believes he is the "one and only." To avoid a mixup at the pier, where all are likely to be lined up to welcome her, Miss Lee has decided to remain in England.

New York, June 24.—Afraid to return to America because she has become engaged to eleven men, one of whom is an earl, Virginia Lee, Broadway show girl, is now enjoying herself abroad.

Meanwhile New York is wondering when the eleven fiances who expect to become her husband upon her arrival in America are.

Recently Miss Lee, whom Artist Howard Chandler Christy continued over as the "ideal Christy girl," confided to a friend in Paris her numerous love affairs.

"I've got eleven fiances and they'll all be waiting at the pier," she said in confidence, which fact she regretted at the adjourned hearing two weeks ago Tuesday, became known. Mrs. Stillman's lawyers asked an adjournment on the ground of her ill health.

The banker's attorneys objected and suggested dispatching a physician to Mrs. Stillman. Dr. Russell proposed E. Mack, guardian ad litem for little Guy Stillman, pointed toward the robust osteopath and said smiling:

GLAD TO TREAT HER.

Without an instant's hesitation and with no apparent appreciation of Mr. Mack's humor, the osteopath said softly:

"Yes, I would be glad to treat the lady."

Everyone smiled and Mr. Mack added:

"I'm afraid Dr. Russell wouldn't come back, though, and we'd have a wake instead of a court hearing."

Mrs. Stillman is preparing to ask for an absolute divorce. This was learned from one of the highest sources of authority in the celebrated case, and may be accepted as an indication of the confidence with which Mrs. Stillman is facing the resumption of the hearings in the banker's suit next week.

Recently her charms and ability in the ballet of the "League of Nations" in London won for Miss Lee the enthusiasm of the Maharaja of Kapurthala, a man of tremendous wealth.

Miss Lee was born in Mexico City and educated in New Orleans. She is twenty-one years old. Accompanied by her mother and sister, she came to New York several years ago and met Christy. Immediately struck with her charms, the famous artist engaged her as a model. He described her:

"My most marvellous model. She can express expression—and hold it."

George Grey Barnard, the sculptor, sought long for a girl who would serve as a model for a statue of Eve. He found her in Miss Lee.

SHOTS FIRED AT NEWLYWEDS

Honeymoon Car of Newton Society Couple Hit on Revere Boulevard

While motoring along the Revere boulevard on the first lap of their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Conant Colby of eNwton, who had been married only a few hours previously, narrowly escaped death when two shots were fired at them from the marshes.

One heavy bullet shattered the glass of the automobile windshield, while the second, which was high, passed harmlessly over the heads of the newlyweds.

The young bridegroom put on speed and drove to Revere station square, where he reported the occurrence to Patrolman Windsor of the Lynn police.

Lynn and Saugus policemen spread over the entire district, beating the marshes and watching the roads, but without success. In the meantime the bridal couple proceeded to Swampscott, where Mr. Colby said he was at a loss to account for the attack.

The marriage was a society event in Newton, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Theodore R. Ludlow, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Newton Highlands. The bride was Miss Beatrice Marion Lowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Payson Tucker Lowell of No. 17 Cushing street, Newton Highlands. She is a graduate of Pine Manor, class of 1918, while her husband graduated from Harvard in 1902 and the law school in 1907.

After a wedding reception early in the evening, the couple started by automobile for a wedding trip through Maine and ... Hampshire. According to Colby, as their machine was passing Ballard street, near the Fox Hill bridge in the Saugus-Revere line the two shots rang out, followed by the crash of the smashed windshield. Mr. Colby said he felt that neither he nor his bride had enemies who would go to the extreme of shooting. The Lynn police sent out a broadcast warning to be on the alert for any suspected gunmen.

GUNMEN SOUGHT IN BIG LIQUOR THEFT

Providence, June 24.—Alleged gunmen, alleged to have been implicated in other large liquor thefts, are being sought by the police as a result of the attack made on Charles Fiachina of Philadelphia, who was robbed of 150 cases of liquor and a sum of money said to total $10,000. Fiachlas was attacked in the bay while, transporting the booze in a boat between Bristol and East Greenwich. The victim appealed to a lawyer, who in turn notified the police.

SAYS ACCUSED ARE INNOCENT

Witness Declares Sacco and Vanzetti Are Not Men He Saw Shooting

"I am sure they (the defendants) are not the men I saw shooting Paymaster Parmenter and his guard," testified Peter Iscoria today in Dedham Superior Court at the trial of Nicola Sacco and B. Vanzetti, charged with first degree murder in connection with the South Braintree payroll holdup.

Iscoria, called by the defense, testified he was working as a laborer excavating a cellar for a restaurant forty to fifty feet from the shooting. The witness, a Spaniard, told his story through an interpreter.

"Are you as sure of that as that you are of the distance you were from them?" asked District Attorney Katzmann.

"Yes," replied the witness.

The district attorney then brought out the fact by measuring the plan of the scene that the witness was 92 feet away at the time of the shooting.

Under cross-examination the witness said one of the bandits fired three or four shots at the guard while holding the gun within two or three inches of his body. Medical Examiner Magrath had previously testified that Berardelli's clothing contained no powder stains, proving that the gun was held more than ten inches away.

Henry Cerro, another Spanish laborer testified he saw one of the men shoot.

"They are not the men I saw," said Cerro when asked by Attorney Adams if either of the defendants was the man he saw shooting.

Sibriano Gudierres, who was working near the scene, also said neither of the defendants was the bandit he saw.

Goodwin Revoking Licenses at Rate of 25 Daily in Safety Campaign drunken drivers and those who run away, leaving their victims in the street, in the hope of concealing their identity.

Mr. Goodwin has no discretion whatever in the cases of drunken drivers. Their conviction automatically revokes their right to operate. A second conviction takes away their license for five years.

After they have paid the penalty imposed by law for the most serious offenses, the guilty autoists then can receive their licenses only if the registrar believes they have been punished sufficiently and upon their assurance that they will conduct themselves properly in the future.

More than 300 lives have been taken in auto accidents this year. Registrar Goodwin is employing his arbitrary right to revoke or suspend licenses of those he believes to be unfit. Revocations and suspensions are averaging twenty-five a day.

SHOW WINDOWS MADE TO SINK

Paris Jewelers Adopt New Method to Foil Raids by Gem Thieves

Paris, June 24 — "Disappearing show windows" are being installed by jewelers in Rue De La Paix as a result of the ravages by bandits who raided the street in broad day light last Sunday and got away with gems valued at more than $200,000.

A fine network of copper wires immediately behind the window forms an electrical contact immediately when the window is tampered with, with the result that the entire window sinks into the basement in the same time an electric alarm sounds.

One jeweler has bought a siren which was formerly used to give the alarm for air raids during the war. He is having it installed on the roof connected with his show windows by electric wires so contrived that the siren will blow when a window is broken.

Other gem stores are paying armed watchmen to stand by their doors day and night.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ABOLITION PLEA

Church Service Is Sufficient Instruction for Children, Association Told

Abolishing Sunday schools and allowing children to get their spiritual instruction by attendance at church services was advocated at the annual meeting of the New Church Sunday School Association at its meeting in the Bowdoin Street Church by Miss R. K. Sewall, who read a paper for her sister, Mrs. Alice A. S. James, of Urbana, O.

"The modern Sunday school, with its many methods of instruction, is confusing to the modern child.

"We cannot replace the reverence and dignity of a church service for teaching the child mind. Most of the instruction given in modern Sunday schools is distracting. We try to do too much.

"The presence of a child in the family pew with its parents and guardians, is likely to be more to impress the child through forms and ceremonies than the confusion of a Sunday school room."

WEYMOUTH TO ACT ON 'CLUBS' TONIGHT

List of 'Dont's' for the Care of Babies in Hot Weather

A list of important "Don'ts" to mothers for the care of children in the hot weather was issued today by Dr. Merrill E. Champion of the State Department of Health. They are:

"Don't allow the baby's milk to become warm. Protect it from dirt and flies.

"Don't allow it to come into contact with other foods. Keep it separate in the ice-chest.

"Don't use milk unless it is pasteurized. If not properly pasteurized by dealers, pasteurize it at home.

"Don't overfeed the baby. If he is inclined to have a little of his food, don't urge him to take it.

"Don't give the baby milk undiluted. If taken from a bottle, dilute it with one-quarter the amount of boiled water.

"Don't deprive the baby of water. He cannot ask for it himself. He can get along without food, but he can't get along without water.

"Don't allow the baby's skin to get in bad condition. Give him a bath at least once a day and during the hot weather sponge him off once.

"Don't burden the baby with too many clothes. During the mid-day, when it is very hot, all the clothes may be removed except the band and diaper.

"Don't allow the baby to inhale foul air. Sunlight does him no harm, but it should not shine directly in his eyes.

"Don't allow flies and mosquitoes to come into contact with the baby. Cover him with a netting, as flies carry disease germs from one place to another.

"Don't allow the baby to become overheated. Find as cool a place as possible and keep him there.

"Don't give the baby any food for twelve hours if he is sick. Give him castor oil and plenty of water to drink. At the end of twelve hours give him only boiled skimmed milk, and strained cereal the next day. If he is feverish, sponge him off with cold water.

"Don't delay calling a physician for the slightest ailment."

DR. HARTWELL WAS MARTYR TO SCIENCE

Dr. J. H. Hartwell, native of Worcester, was a martyr to science. He died after an operation for appendicitis performed on four-year-old Kathryn Morse of Philadelphia. After he had made an incision in the girl's body he found he had pricked the thumb. Nothing but time could have saved her. Hartwell, and he knew it. He went on with the operation, but his sacrifice was vain for the little girl died.

FRENCH WOMEN APE MRS. JIGGS

U. S. Cartoonist Blamed for "Cave Woman" Fad; Bare Arms and Legs the Style

Paris, June 24.—Mrs. Jiggs, whose rave over the "Cave Man Lure of Father" have stirred a new longing in the breasts of European women, is to have her part in revolutionizing the fashions of Europe.

Cartoonist George McManus, creator of the Jiggs family, is being blamed by many men for spoiling the cherished femininity of the French women, and turning them into domestic dictators.

Under the racing betting booth the modern woman stands; the muscles on her sleeveless arms stand out like iron bands," chattered Courtland Bishop at the paddock in the Auteuil track, as he watched hundreds of society women demonstrating the new "back to the primitive style."

This is the style which decrees that every really fashionable woman shall have athletic arms and legs "a la Carpentier."

While the big fight is ostensibly responsible, the real reason is found in the changing ideas of the smart set, who with one accord are following the "evening gowns for afternoon" fad.

Elegantly slim women decked out in barbarous jewels paraded between the betting booths and the grandstand displaying bare arms and legs with large bands of muscles exposed. One woman had slightly rouged her arms from the elbow up in order to accentuate the physical idea.

As a consequence of the new fashion, by which the "clinging vine" type is relegated to the background in favor of robust, athletic bodies, dozens of matrons with their daughters can be seen any morning around the gymnasiums in Bois de Boulogne indulging in track exercise.

Many exclusive homes are now the scenes of fencing and boxing bouts between society women.

Paris men, accustomed to dominating their wives on European fashions, are regarding the progress of the new "body culture" idea anxiously, fearing that the weaker sex may become the stronger if it keeps up.

Many of the men, especially the smaller ones, can be heard denouncing the "two-fisted American women," who "spoil our cherished femininity," charging the idea to Cartoonist McManus, at whose pictorial representations of Mrs. Jiggs as a domestic dictator the women have gained longingly on ever since those pictures found popularity in Europe.

Japs Buy 50 'Sparrow Hacks' in England

London, June 24.—Agents of the Mikado in England have completed a deal for the purchase of at least fifty of the newest type of fast scouting airplanes for use by the Japanese fleet.

The machines are single seaters, with two machine guns. They are equipped with 220-horsepower Bentley rotary engines and have a speed of approximately 130 miles an hour. They cost $20,000 each.

A famous British test pilot, who tries all machines, declares that the planes are unsatisfactory, saying:

"They are the trickiest machines that ever flew. They are especially delicate and need the most expert pilots. These the Japanese do not have. There are only about five men in the world today who could successfully fly this type of machine. The planes are known as 'sparrow hacks.'"

GOMPERS' RULE OUT OF DATE

Hapgood Shows That Real Labor Leader Could Stem Present Anti-Union Wave

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Staff Correspondent of Boston American.

Washington, June 24.—Not often do I write three times in succession on the same topic. However, as long as there is the slightest chance of dislodging Samuel Gompers from the leadership of American labor, I want to do what I can to make clear the advantages that would come from having a real live thinker in his position.

NORMAN HAPGOOD

It is not a mere matter of comparison between Gompers and the individual who might be his first successor. It is a question of breaking up a petrified system. Mr. Gompers has surrounded himself with an executive committee that is, if anything, even more backward than he is.

If someone else was elected chief, however, he might compare with Mr. Gompers in one attribute or another. His election would mean that the old machine had fallen. It would mean that the way had been cleared for American labor to get itself into condition to deal successfully with the problems of the time.

EDUCATION OF CAPITAL.

If labor were led in a creative and statesmanlike way, capital would be educated inevitably. The general public would be educated and would drag the capitalists along with it. But as a matter of fact labor, instead of gaining public confidence, has less public sympathy than it had a few years ago.

Look at the chance that a real labor leader would have today. Mr. Hoover would not be called by anybody a radical, or in any way overcritical of business, and yet it was a committee appointed at his instance that has reported that in some of the industries which it has been investigating the management is not more than 50 per cent efficient.

In other words, a business of that kind is in the control of such men that if it continues in existence at all, it can only be because it costs the public twice as much as it ought to.

PLANT'S CHIEF WASTE.

Of all the wastes in management, none equals the waste that comes from rushing a plant three-fifths of the time and shutting it down entirely or in part the other two-fifths. This kind of waste, of destruction of life, or injury both to the employees and to the public, goes on even in industries that are concerned with staples.

If Judge Gary and his friends were worthy of the imperial power that a compliant public allows to remain in their hands, they could have done much to prevent the present collapse. They could have used their incredible resources to stabilize their production. They could have reduced their prices at the right time, well ahead of being forced to do so.

Then when they had started prices down, they could properly have reduced wages.

LEADERSHIP DOUBLY NEEDED.

Mr. Gompers cannot force unionization on the Steel Trust by the methods he is using. If he were capable of more constructive thinking he would do his part, a large one, in mobilizing public opinion to approach these workers in a way that would soon shake the worst examples of industrial despotism.

Such leadership is doubly needed just now because the anti labor forces are taking the offensive. For example, in the Connecticut Legislature there is a bill now pending for the abolition of strike benefits to members of unions engaged in "unwarranted industrial warfare," without defining "unwarranted."

Picketing is abolished by the same bill. In Nebraska Governor McKelvie has signed the law against picketing. In Colorado the State Supreme Court has upheld the law that there cannot be a strike without thirty days' notice.

NATION-WIDE CAMPAIGN.

Illinois has a bill before the Legislature against "unwarranted industrial warfare." One of the tests is "where there is no trade dispute involving issues of direct benefit to the acting parties." That does not change the actual law at all. It is merely a symptom of the nation-wide campaign.

Some people have gone out of their way to doubt my statement, that insurance companies are insuring against strikes, but my statement is exact. Of course, this is an encouragement to despotic behavior, and of course I could not pay the companies, since it would tend to bring on the strikes they insure against unless some of the big organizations had ways of making it good to the insurance companies.

What does Mr. Gompers know of the real industrial conflict? Instead of getting to the bottom of it he, like the big interests, the reactionaries, and some high government officials, is content to tell ghost stories about the so-called Reds—the safest way of avoiding real issues.

WILL REPRINT SONG PICTURES

Within Next Two Weeks All Back Drawings in $6,000 Test to Reappear

There still is time to enter the Boston American's Songs of the World Title Test and share in the distribution of $6,000 in 220 cash awards.

Cut out today's picture, No. 15.

Write or paste that title on the line reserved for the purpose immediately below the picture.

There will be 60 pictures.

$6,000 IN AWARDS.

At the end of the Test forward 60 pictures and titles to the Boston American. The following awards will be paid to those who send in the largest numbers of Correct Titles.

One first award	$1,000
One second award	1,000
One third award	750
One fourth award	500
One fifth award	400
One sixth award	300
One seventh award	200
One eighth award	150
One ninth award	100
One tenth award	50
100 awards of $10 each	1,000
110 awards of $5 each	550
Total	$6,000

The titles used in this Test are the titles of songs. There are no made-up or "make-believe" titles.

One title in today's List of Titles fits today's Test Picture better than any other title in the List. This will be true every day. Reference is made, of course, to the Correct Title.

It is quite true that other titles may "appear" to fit the picture. Some of them might do if the Correct Title were not in the List.

CHALLENGE BY ARTIST.

In every case the artist has drawn or will draw his picture to illustrate the Correct Title. The titles are chosen first; the pictures drawn to illustrate THEM.

The artist does not want you to get sixty Correct Titles. He challenges you to do it. He says it is "possible but not likely."

However that may be, the Boston American will pay the 220 awards named above to the 220 persons who send in the largest numbers of Correct Titles. Even if the largest number of all is only forty, the top award of $1,000 will be paid for it. And so with all other awards, down the entire list.

YOU may enter the $6,000 Songs of the World Test TODAY.

Begin now, by writing the title of Picture No. 15.

Back numbers of the Boston American are not on sale at this office, but the Title Test Editor is making arrangements for ONE printing of all Back Pictures.

BACK PICTURES TO APPEAR.

In the $5,000 Movie Play Title Test, recently concluded, there were three printings of Back Pictures. Many participants thought there should have been none. Objection was made that the re-prints permitted too many to enter the Test at a late hour on equal terms with those who had labored from the beginning."

The Test Editor, however, has received upwards of several hundred requests for back numbers of the paper. Some ask for as many as ten Back Pictures. These requests can be taken care of in but one WAY and there will be ONE BIG RE-PRINTING OF THE PICTURES. The date will be announced later. It will be within the next two weeks.

Get as many of the larger pictures as possible. Begin today. Some participants do not like to use the re-prints because of their size. They are just as good as the larger pictures and it is an interesting fact that the sets of nearly all, if not all the leaders in the Movie Play Title Test contained some reprints.

Begin today, then, and be ready for ONE reprinting of Back Pictures; with, of course, a large List of Titles.

NUMBER EACH LIST.

As the Test advances, you will find it desirable to turn back to these early pictures and make sure of your titles. With that in mind the Test Editor respectfully suggests numbering each List of Titles. On today's List, for example, mark the figure "15." The List of Titles may be changed at any time. No List of Titles must necessarily be kept standing one week, although that has been the custom. The List may be changed or lengthened without notice. IT ALWAYS WILL CONTAIN THE CORRECT TITLE.

Copies of the Test Pictures—free-hand or tracing-paper—will be quite as acceptable as Test Pictures clipped from the paper.

The Songs of the World Title Test is exclusively a Boston American enterprise. Test Pictures and Lists of Titles will be printed in no other newspaper. They will not be printed on Sundays.

ROOSEVELT SUIT EXPLAINED

Indiana Woman Claims She Loaned Late Colonel $69,600 in 1912 Campaign

Chicago, June 24.—Mrs. Mary Burkett of Hillsdale, Ind., who has filed suit against the estate of the late Theodore Roosevelt, alleging a claim of $69,600, said that during the Republican National convention in 1912 she had loaned the money to the late Colonel Roosevelt and Charles J. Shunson, on a joint note.

James J. Perton, then a Danville, Ill., justice of the peace, now dead, is said by Mrs. Burkett to have negotiated the loan, which was made in cash.

Mrs. Burkett in a statement at Hillsdale said the loan was made in a Chicago office on June 21, 1912, and that the note bearing Colonel Roosevelt's and Shunson's signatures now repose in the keeping of the Chemical National Bank of New York, which is acting as her representative.

Rules of the Song Title Test

The Boston American Songs of the World Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age. Invited to any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and twenty cash awards will be given by this newspaper to the readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the seven pictures to be published on each day consecutively (Sundays excepted) in the Movie Play Title Test.

All employees of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participation in the awards.

The test will consist of 60 pictures, each representing the title of a well-known song, to be printed one each day in the Boston American, beginning with Monday, June 6, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been conducted in the past or which may be run in the Boston American will not debar any one from entering this contest.

Every participant in and contestant for one set of 60 pictures will be entitled to only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant will be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given to any one person.

Duplicate awards will be given in case two or more persons send in the same correct list. The awards printed in the Boston American in the form of cash shall be in such form as itself, accompanied either by the picture furnished by the Boston American, or a box of neatly cover thereof, and must have the name, address, etc., of the participant plainly written thereon.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, i. e., do not write titles under one another or a list of them.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the persons sending in the largest number of correct titles received in full and legible.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, legibility and accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American title headquarters, at No. 80 Hanover street, Boston 8, Mass., in person or in person within the specified time limit.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be addressed to Boston American Title Test Editor, 80 Hanover street, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. Box 2387, and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will contain the titles of songs, it is obvious that it will be absolutely necessary that the participant be fully dressed at postal rates, as mail of this character will have to be considered as first-class matter. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any of them on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

The Test will be one from which to buy. Lists of Song Titles will be printed in the Boston American. The list appearing will contain simply clearly the correct titles.

Participants who desire personal information should address their inquiries to the Song Title Test Editor, Boston American. Such inquiries will be answered as promptly as possible through the columns of the Boston American. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply or they may locate Main 6100 or call in person.

The Boston American reserves the right to make any changes or additions to these regulations that it may deem necessary for fair and properly conducted Test, and the decision of the Boston American Song Title Editor on any questions which may arise will be accepted final, and the entry of a participant in the competition will be held as a definite and unconditional acceptance of all the rules and regulations now made or to be made.

WAGER GOMPERS BEATS LEWIS

Friends of Veteran Leader Confident of Re-election of Chief

By International News Service.

Denver, Col., June 24.—Big money is being wagered on the contest between Samuel Gompers and John L. Lewis for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor.

At the Gompers camp today odds of 10 to 1 were quoted on the re-election of the veteran leader, and with $17,000 to wager a group of labor dictators supporting Gompers went seeking a Lewis booster believed to be ready to bet $10,000.

They returned, however, with the announcement that "he hasn't even ten cents to wager."

Reprisals are threatened on both sides as an aftermath and a shakeup in the executive council is predicted even if Lewis is defeated.

There is talk of suspending the rules and holding the election some time today, but the rules provide that it shall be held on the last day of the convention. Gompers' speech attacking William Randolph Hearst is generally regarded as his campaign speech.

The most significant feature of the convention is the coalition between the miners and the railroad unions. The miners have supported the railroad unions in all the big issues of their program, and the victory of the railroad unions on the issue of government ownership and democratic control is declared to be a victory for the "opposition" to Gompers regardless of the outcome of the election.

"He beat me," she said. "He blackened my arm and pounded me in the presence of my little daughter. Life with him was impossible."

She described incidents she alleged had taken place at the store on Boylston street and of a row over an unfinished luncheon. She also described the discovery in her husband's room of a piece of woman's clothing.

When she spoke of this find she said her husband told her:

After You Serve This Dish
He'll Forget His Mother's Cooking

Tonight when he comes home for dinner surprise him with smoking hot Pineapple Turnovers.

They are very easy to make. Just follow these directions:

Pineapple Turnovers

First make a plain pastry dough; roll it thin and cut into 4-inch squares. Drain a can of Crushed or Grated Hawaiian Pineapple, saving the juice for sherbets or sauces. On each square put a large spoonful of pineapple, a small bit of butter and a spoonful of granulated sugar. Fold the squares into triangles, pinching the edges firmly together so they will not come apart in cooking; fry in deep lard and serve warm, dusted with powdered sugar.

With Hawaiian Crushed or Grated Pineapple there are any number of tempting dishes you can make, sherbets, salads, puddings, pies, and sauces.

Buy this convenient fruit, at your grocer's, in half dozen or dozen lots, and send for our recipe book containing many ways to serve it.

At the soda fountain ask for a Pineapple Sundae.

PLAYED TAMBO BEFORE QUEEN

Marie Grosse Yanetta, Who Is Dead, Was Great Favorite in Back Bay

Marie Grosse Yanetta, known years ago to the Back Bay and patrons of the concert stage as "Happy Marie," the first woman tambourine player to appear on the streets of Boston, is dead.

She died after a long illness at her home, No. 212 Ashland street, Roslindale, in her 58th year, leaving her husband, Domenick, and nine children.

Marie, who played her tambourine before Queen Victoria and the English court, was a great favorite in the Back Bay, and was taken by Mrs. Jack Gardner. As a result she obtained many engagements in concert tours, her last public appearance being at the opening of the National Theatre in Boston.

She danced before the members of the Brookline Country Club and the Metropolitan Riding Club, making her last appearance on the streets in 1899. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the Sacred Heart Church, North End.

Parish Lawn Party

The annual lawn party of Our Lady of Lourdes parish, Jamaica Plain, will be held tomorrow on the church grounds, Brookside avenue. Tables and booths will be in charge of the priests and women of the parish.

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition All Summer

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the heated term. Mixed with perspiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautifying. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without giving an oily, streaked, spotted or pasty appearance. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been soiled by dirt or weather. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white, satiny, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax obtainable at any druggist will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin free from sagging or wrinkling, or to overcome such condition, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel.—Advertisement.

CAMP IN SHADOW OF WHITE HOUSE

Disabled Veterans Seek to Demonstrate Their Flight to Administration

By International News Service.

Washington, June 24.—Soldiers disabled in the world war are going to bring their plight to the attention of the government by camping right under the noses of official Washington next week, it was announced here today.

Hundreds of United States Army tents will blossom forth in Potomac Park, within a stone's throw of the White House and government departments, to house disabled veterans who will attend the national convention of the National Disabled Soldiers' League, according to plans announced by league officers today.

A thorough airing of the grievances of the veterans is expected to be made during the four days the convention is in session. The soldiers will be addressed by Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, Senator Sutherland, of West Virginia, and other members of Congress interested in securing adjusted compensation for former soldiers.

The convention committee of the National Disabled Soldiers' League is composed of John T. Nolan, of Boston, chairman; Eugene Modill, of Philadelphia; Frank B. Coakley of New York; George E. Gillis, national commander, of Bangor, Me., and Samuel Reed, of Wamsterdam, N. Y.

CRIME TO HUG A GIRL IN PUBLIC

New York, June 24.—It is now a "crime" to put one's arms around a girl's waist in public in New York.

Benjamin Rubin is in jail for two days because a policeman caught him sitting on the front seat of his own taxicab with his arm around his own sweetheart, at Inspiration Point on Riverside Drive.

This parking point, overlooking the beautiful Hudson, has been a favorite spot for automobile "spooners" on moonlight nights. Chief Magistrate McAdoo, who sentenced Rubin, has decided to put a quietus on it.

B. & M. ABROGATION IS QUESTIONED

Abrogation of contracts between the Boston & Maine Railroad and the employees of the system, notice of which was filed June 10 by the road, is not sanctioned by decision No. 119 of the Federal Labor Board, as claimed by the management. This is made plain by an official interpretation of the decision made by the board itself. The road's notice to its employes took the stand that under the decision the so called national agreements expired automatically July 10 provided a thirty-day notice had been given, and that the wage board then had the right to establish new contracts.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

By BETTY ALDEN.

There has been quite a bit of entertaining these last days along the North Shore in honor of Clarissa Curtis and her fiance, Prince Cantacuzene, who are to be wedded on Monday. Not the least important of these is the dinner and dance which Clarissa's aunt, Mrs. Edwin Upton Curtis, is giving tomorrow night at the Nahant Club for the bride-to-be and the entire wedding entourage. Miss Penelope Curtis, Clarissa's cousin, will of course help her mother play hostess at the affair. I am sure that Penelope will make a very attractive bridesmaid when the daughter of Mrs. "Tom" Curtis becomes Princess Cantacuzene in the old, quaint little church in Nahant, where the wedding will take place.

Mrs. Charles A. Porter of Beacon street, with her two daughters, Isabel and Margaret, number among the Bostonians who are staying at the Griswold, New London, for the Harvard-Yale boatraces this afternoon and the big ball at the Griswold this evening. The Porters, by the way, are leaving at the end of this month for Squam Lake, where they have rented a camp for the season, and where Dr. Porter will join them whenever his professional duties permit.

Mrs. Arthur E. Grannis of Brookline, with her three children, who have been visiting Mrs. Grannis' mother, Mrs. Oscar Isaigi, will soon end their stay at "Cleveredge," the Isaigi Summer home in Stockbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Codman of Marlboro street and their family have opened their cottage at Smith's Point, Manchester, for the Summer. Mr. Codman is president of the North Shore Horticultural Society, having been elected to that office last Winter.

Tomorrow, garden lovers will be given another opportunity to see some really splendid estates, for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Shattuck and Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge are showing the gardens at their country homes on Warren street, Brookline.

I hear that Dr. Robert B. Greenough and Perrin Greenslet are among the guests at the Red Lion Inn at Stockbridge. It is said that they are out for trout every morning, and the thrilling news comes that Dr. Greenough caught one on Beartown Mountain that weighed a pound.

I note that Mr. Harold Osgood Whitney of Boston was one of the ushers at the fashionable wedding of Miss Marjorie E. Woodhouse and Mr. Frederic W. Proctor, which took place at the Long Island country home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse. Both Mr. and Mrs. Proctor are of New York, but their attendants at the wedding came from distant cities.

TRIES SUICIDE IN NORTH END

Bridgeport, Ct., Man Shoots Himself and Is on Danger List at Hospital

Joseph B. Granfield, 35 years old, of Bishop avenue, Bridgeport, Ct., shot and probably fatally wounded himself on Travers street, North End, while being pursued by Patrolman Shea of the Hanover street station.

He was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital in a passing automobile, where the bullet was found to have entered the left breast, and the man's name was placed on the danger list.

On Granfield's person were found morphine, cocaine and a 32-caliber revolver, which Shea seized immediately after the shot was fired. The man asked that his brother-in-law, Alton Smith, of Porter street, Malden, be notified.

FINE AUTO DRIVER WHO BLOCKED CARS

Raymond Doyle of Weld avenue, Jamaica Plain, was fined $20 by Judge Hayden in the Roxbury Court following conviction of obstructing street car traffic at Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue, on June 15. Doyle operates a truck for a city ash contractor, and according to the charge against him, drew up his truck at the point mentioned in such a way as to halt the passage of cars for more than half an hour. After imposing the fine Judge Hayden warned Doyle that if he appeared on a similar charge again the court would impose the maximum penalty, three months in the House of Correction or a fine of $500.

BOSTON TEMPLE PLACE ELEVEN

Blouse-Pride

Blouse-pride as it pertains here is divided into three distinct classes—one leading up to the other.

Makers of the kind of Blouses we buy take pride in having their products shown and sold in a shop that takes pride in what it shows and sells.

That is this shop. And thus two sorts of Blouse-Pride are shown.

The third is the one to which the others lead—pride of our patrons in their Jays-Blouses—a pride we are fostering and increasing as the days go by.

METHUEN FACES CUT IN TROLLEYS

Methuen, June 24.—Because the town officials of Methuen are alleged to have disregarded the requests of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company to enforce the anti-jitney ordinance, John H. Hayes, local manager of the company, notified the selectmen that there will be a return to the old fewer cars schedule on one of the routes where jitneys are claimed to be offending. Manager Hayes in a letter to the government heads alleged that some of the jitney drivers operated after a night effort had been made to enforce the law, effecting a cut in receipts of the company.

WIFE OF DR. COX IS ASTONISHED

Says Gratitude Won't Permit Her to Remain Silent About Tanlac — Gains 18 Lbs. Health Restored.

Mrs. T. R. Cox, wife of Dr. T. R. Cox, a prominent dentist, residing at 19 Warwick St., Boston, is now an ardent champion of the merits of Tanlac.

While discussing Tanlac, which has been so beneficial to her, Mrs. Cox seemed profoundly grateful and in commenting on her improved condition, said:

"I feel that I would be ungrateful and neglectful of my duty if I did not tell suffering humanity what Tanlac has done for me. Why, at the time I began taking it I only weighed one hundred and eight pounds. I had fallen off from one hundred and fifty-five and was so thin that my clothes just hung on me like a sack. But Tanlac is rapidly building me up to my normal weight and strength, as I now weigh one hundred and twenty-six pounds, having gained eighteen pounds on four bottles.

"My health had been very poor for two years and there were times when I seemed to lose everything I ate. I had an appetite and my stomach was in such a wretched condition that my food seemed to do me harm instead of good. I had such a bloated, stuffed-up feeling after eating I could scarcely breathe and the pains in the pit of my stomach were so severe I could not stand up straight. For two months at the time I thought I couldn't live. My nerves were all undone and many nights I never closed my eyes in sleep, just before I got Tanlac I was looking so run-down, thin and frail that many of my friends did not know me on first sight.

"Well, my hopes of recovery were about all gone when I saw Tanlac so highly praised and concluded to see if it would help me. I began to feel better almost immediately and my husband and myself are both astonished at the results I have received from the first bottle. My stomach acts like a new one now, the gas and distress I got hardly out enough to satisfy me, and I am feeling like a different person. My nerves are so calm that I sleep every night like a child. I have lots of new color in my cheeks and my friends are all congratulating me on how well I look. I was also taken Tanlac, too, with splendid results and we are always glad to recommend it to our friends."

Tanlac is distributed by International Drug, Inc., and sold in Boston by all Liggett's drug stores.—Advertisement.

RUPTURE EXPERT

Monday, June 27, Is Last Day in Boston.

Free Information and Application of Famous Rice Method on Your Particular Rupture.

A. S. Dewar, G. C. Reid and Mrs. M. J. Hudson, the rupture experts, who have been meeting the ruptured at their headquarters in the Adams House, Washington St., for the past few days and demonstrating to them the famous Rice Non-Surgical Rupture Methods, will remain at the hotel in Boston, Mass., until Monday, evening, June 27. All of those who are ruptured and who have not taken advantage of the opportunity which these experts offer, should lose no time in calling at the hotel to see them. They make no charge whatever for the demonstration, advice and application of the Rice Method to your particular case. Mrs. Hudson will personally attend all women and children.

If you are ruptured do not let anything prevent you from seeing these experts while here. They are trained under the personal supervision of W. S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., who perfected the far famed Rice Method to which so many thousands have ascribed their cures in letters written to the Rice Experts. Come and see the Rice Experts. Find out about this important matter for yourself. Your future comfort and freedom from gouging trusses is the most important thing in the whole world for you. Follow the lead of those other thousands of ruptured persons who had the Rice Method demonstrated to them, decided to use it, and have since reported themselves as cured.

It does not cost you a penny to find out all about this Method, to have it fully and completely demonstrated right upon your own rupture. This is what the Rice Rupture experts are her for. You buy nothing unless you are fully convinced and anxious to buy.

Your time is short now. Do not let these experts get away without your seeing them and finding out about this important matter. Remember, there is nothing else so important to you.

The Rice Experts will be glad to have you call upon them at the hotel, from 9 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 P. M. or 7 to 9 in the evenings, during the remainder of their stay in this city. The dates are June 23 to 27, inclusive, except Sunday. Don't lose this opportunity.

News of Motion Picture World

Adolph Bolm, the famous ballet master, visits Universal City and discusses the art of dancing as related to the film with Edith Roberts and her director, King Baggot.

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

CECIL DeMILLE'S trip East to confer with Jesse Lasky and the other Paramount heads regarding his future productions proved a particularly unsatisfactory affair. The famous director has just returned to Hollywood in an enraged state at the general state of movie matters.

When the censorship bills were passed in a number of states it became necessary for DeMille to do something about it. There have been scenes in nearly all of his films that have been cut for showing in certain places, but when it was apparent that they could be cut out for good for showing in many places he came East to talk it over with the censorship board in New York.

There the situation was laid down firmly and DeMille came to the conclusion that his famous spectacles were too radically different. He decided to film a famous classics, "Faust," despite the fact that D. W. Griffith already came to grief with the censorship question in regard to it. was his first question, "No," voted the board, "it's immoral."

"Dickens?" hinted DeMille. "Immoral," replied the board. DeMille and Lasky gasped. "Then Thackeray?" they whispered. And again the board came back, "Immoral!"

In Hollywood DeMille is expressing his opinions on the situation. "What," he demands, would Edison have done if each of his inventions had to be submitted to a committee of three farmers before he could go ahead and perfect them?"

CECIL B. DeMILLE.

BARBARA CASTLETON SUES.

BARBARA CASTLETON is causing a flurry of excitement in the film colony on the West coast by her suit for divorce from George W. Zimmerman. What connection this has with the rumors that she was to marry Willard Mack is not known.

Willard Mack openly announces that Pauline Frederick has promised to re-marry him, and Miss Frederick practically admits that she will. When the rumor of the Castleton-Mack engagement was brought up a year ago no mention was made of any husband of Miss Castleton. The divorce proceedings are the first inklings that she was married.

"PETER PAN" ON WAY TO SCREEN.

HOLLYWOOD is awaiting the announcement of the player chosen to play the role of Peter in the Famous Players' production of "Peter Pan." John Robertson, who did such splendid work in directing the other Barrie play, "Sentimental Tommy," is on his way West to take up the megaphone on "Peter."

MAY McAVOY is said to stand the best chance of being picked for the honor in recognition of her work as Grizel in "Tommy." Miss McAvoy was little known until she played his typical Barrie role.

MAY McAVOY

CAMERA CLICKS

BETTY ROSS CLARKE, who was recently married to Lieutenant Arthur Collins, has returned from her honeymoon and is busy on the Universal lot playing the leading role opposite Henry Carey in his next picture, "Partners." Mary Philbin, who is considered another "find," will play the ingenue role.

HENRY B. WALTHALL and his wife, Mary Charleson, are returning to the movies for a while. They have been touring the country in a stage production and plan to return to the footlights in the Fall.

VIRGINIA VALLI is combining business and honeymoon on her trip West. Just before she left New York Miss Valli married Demi Lamson and hurried to Hollywood to appear in the leading feminine role opposite Bert Lytell in "June," adapted from a Saturday Evening Post story.

TOM SENTSCHI doesn't believe in saving all his money in the movies. He has gone into the oil industry to a large extent and finds it a safer proposition than his friends predicted. He is also going in for ranching on a large scale.

ETHEL CLAYTON

Art Exam. L. A.

ETHEL CLAYTON is preparing for the first scenes of the film adaptation of "The Girl of the Golden West." This will be the first motion picture since she signed to star for Lasky. Miss Clayton came into the limelight when she appeared opposite House Peters in "The Great Divide."

WALLIE REID STARTS SOMETHING

WHEN Wallace Reid presented the Wallace Reid Cup to the directors of the evening at Blauvelt Heath Inn, Lynbrook, N. Y., on Wednesday evening he didn't know that he was starting something for New York. The affair was such a success that every Wednesday night a movie star will be on hand to present a cup.

And now Delmonico's has started a "motion picture night," which will be inaugurated by the only combined movie and fox-trotting star in existence, Wallace Reid. Last night was the "big opening" and Reid was there "in person" to present a cup to the winning pair of dancers. You can't keep the movies out of anywhere now!

WALLACE REID

DEGREE FOR REX INGRAM

REX INGRAM received the degree of bachelor of arts at the Yale commencement day before yesterday for his work in filming "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." This is the first instance of official recognition of the films as an art given by any university or college. Ingram was a member of the class of 1916 at Yale. He came to this country in 1911 from Dublin, Ireland, where his father is a professor. He is but 29 years old.

Ingram has just finished the filming of the Balzac novel, "Eugenie Grandet," which has been re-titled "The Conquering Power." His next picture will be "Turn to the Right."

In speaking of "The Four Horsemen" the other day he told of the work in getting inspiration for the art work. He had agents canvassing the museums for reproductions of the horsemen as pictured in the Book of Revelation. It was found that Arthur Deenison, a collector of old prints, had a copy of an original set, of Albrecht Durer's engravings on wood. Ingram made rough drawings of the costumes to be worn by the riders and modeled clay images of the heads and faces of the horsemen so that masks could be made.

After taking the pictures of the horsemen in turn, they appeared so horrifying on the screen that they had to have Ingram retake with a heavy cloud rising about them to soften the figures and make them less terrifying.

Hot Days Hold No Fear for Kids When There's Ice Cream and Water Carts

YOUNG VOLSTEAD! This little North End chap was drier than a Coalition speech, so he had his sister boost him up to the gurgly bubbler. Ice cream soda's better, he says. We believe him.

BABY! M. Bottai, a war hero, is the youngest deputy member of the Italian Fascisti, national party of Italy. He is but 25 years old and promises to make his mark in politics. (Key.)

THIS IS A BARE TALE! Even blase Atlantic City sat up and stroked its chin when these fair ladies rolled by with their calves and knees in a shocking state of nudeness. The fad is apparently not confined to the tender age, either, as many a well-cushioned matron was observed minus her hosiery. (K. & H.)

OO-O, LA, LA! Every one a French beauty. Mlle. Louise Beraud (centre) is surrounded by madelonettes and beauty queens of Paris at the fete in honor of the birth of the famous French war song. (W. W.)

THE BAD NEWS—Edward H. Batson (if you're interested to know) is the new deputy commissioner of internal revenue in charge of income taxes. Not popular officially. Socially a fine chap.

CREPE! Although the American team clearly outclassed the British polo players, the latter proved themselves good losers. Here is shown E. Hopkins and Colonel Hunter in a smashing bit of practice with Lord Wodehouse of the English team. (Key.)

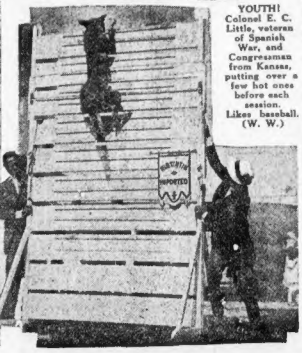
HORRORS! Young lady, go right back to your bathhouse and take that disgraceful bathing suit right off. It's too low in the front and needs to be pulled down nearer the shoes. Lulu Locke, Chicago policewoman, putting a censor tag on a questionable suit. (Int.)

SEA STUFF. Little Marie Trad traveled alone from Port Said to Utica, N. Y., on the S. S. City of York, which has just arrived. (Key.)

THERE IT GOES! Mrs. A. K. Savage of the Nassau Country Club played a smooth game against Mrs. E. S. Knapp of Westbrook at the Nassau Club. Perhaps it was because she wore a snappy Aztec sweater. Shown during an interesting moment in the tournament at Glen Cove, L. I.

HEAP SOME KIDS! Twenty braves and bravesses of the Passamaquoddy tribe of Eastport, Me., "looked in" on Boston yesterday and pronounced the city "great stuff." The two bronzed maidens above are Alice Basset (left) and [illegible]ine Lola. The lady below enjoying a cool smoke is none other than Joe Molly. All are bound for Plymouth to take part in the [illegible]

LUCK BEAMS! Captain Alban Jones, R. N., resigned, bet $2.75 on Humorist in the English Derby and won $269,100. Never bet before. Never will bet again. Sensible chap. Will continue working. (Int.)

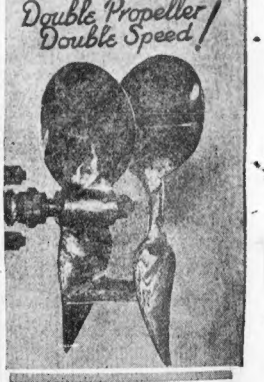


JUST OVER! Miss Ritchie, on E. W. H. Ritchie's chestnut mare, "Konkers," narrowly escaped a bad spill when she won the competition in the high jumps at the Richmond Horse Show.

YOUTH! Colonel E. C. Little, veteran of Spanish War, and Congressman from Kansas, putting over a few hot ones before each session. Likes baseball. (W. W.)

GOING OVER—Do you believe a dog could jump over a 11-foot wall? It's a fact, for several famous German police dogs showed their aerial skill by easily scaling this height during the dog show at Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, Cal. (Int.)

THE CHIC IN CHICKEN—Dorothy Devore is a very proud little girl. She has a very good reason, two in fact. She wears nice clothes and is pretty. One of West Coast's famous bathing beauties.



SPEED AND POWER! A double propeller that may revolutionize the old methods of ocean propulsion has been invented by a Dorchester man, P. J. Griffiths. According to the inventor, the new propeller, which is semi-bubless, increases speed by converting slippage into useful energy. (Int.)

Some have been disappointed because they did not take pains to get a real Palm Beach — always identified by the label shown above. Others because they got such a poorly tailored Palm Beach that it could not possibly give satisfaction. But those who have bought here have only one complaint —that the suits wear too well.

HARVARD AND YALE OARSMEN MEET IN RUBBER CONTEST TODAY

If anything, Harvard appears the more finished combination, but Yale has developed considerable power since the recent shifting of coaches and this power, if displayed in the race might prove sufficient to offset the crimson smoothness.

The Yale crewmen realize the position in which they have been placed and their conversation prior to the big event would indicate that Nickols and not the crew is in for a showing up.

Harvard was installed the favorite in the early races, big odds being offered by Crimson supporters on the outcome of the Junior varsity and slight odds on the freshman race but in the senior varsity the wagering reported was at even money.

Willard Too Busy to Go to Big Bout

Kansas City, Mo., June 24—Jess Willard will not be among the celebrities of the ring who will gather at the Carpentier-Dempsey fight. The Potawatomie giant was here on his way to the Montana oil fields.

"Can't take time from my business," he said, when asked if he would attend the fight.

"What chance has Carpentier against Dempsey?" he was asked.

"I haven't seen Dempsey for a long time," said Jess, soberly rubbing his chin.

Asked if he planned to bet on the winner, Willard said he was too busy to think of fighting anybody just now.

ATHLETICS BATTLE THE RED SOX IN OPENING GAME OF SERIES

MYERS IS PITCHING CHOICE

Macks Not Expected to Cause Duffys a Great Deal of Trouble

By Nick Flatley

Broiled mackerel was the piece de resistance at Fenway Park today, meaning that custom has failed to be honored since the world and baseball was ill or rather wasn't weather considered.

The Red Sox played a single contest, this p. m., and then the program reverts to the double-header system on the morrow.

The series winds up Tuesday and the Braves come home for a royal welcome, after a most successful excursion.

Thereabouts was chased in because the Babe and others of the crowd are supposedly weak against southpaws. The idea was good, but the execution was something else again.

On the other hand a tall husky youth named Cox, a chicken fine baseball for the Quakers. He was a lit with free gas, but the fellow was there with the stuff and arrived a notch ahead of the game.

Six double plays helped to speed things along, each team being knocked out of a chance to score by an equal number of the dual deaths.

Third was uncovered, and the doughty Meusel headed that way. Catcher Al Walters was on the job, scooped down to the bag and got Bhonos home, with plenty time left to tag the runner.

Meusel went into third sliding high, as they say when the suckers are lifted toward the baseman. Walters ducked out of damage, and made the tag while doing it. The banker was honored a bit, but it was too torrid for much jeering.

GIANTS TURN ON BRAVES, 10-4

Latter Hit Toney in Spots, but Big Mountaineer Lasts Out and Triumphs

New York, June 24. The Giants showed some of their early season form here today, defeating the Braves 10 to 4 in the first game of the series. Toney started for the Braves and was hit hard in spots, but for most of the distance the Tennessee mountaineer was able to fool along a big lead. Toney helped win his own game with two singles and a sacrifice fly. He also gave the fans one of the best laughs of the season in the sixth inning, when he stole second. It was a clean steal, too, for the big lumbering fellow, as he got off to a long lead.

The Braves pounding was erratic and ineffective. Pfeffer, who relieved Toney in the fifth inning, was batted for by Watson in the eighth and the latter was touched for fourteen hits in the two innings he worked.

McGraw had the fans in the grandstand in a state of uproar when he protested against Umpire Rigler's decision in forcing Patterson at second base. Rigler and Manager Dave Bancroft of the Boston Nationals were banished from the game.

The best fielding play of the game, however, went to Billy Southworth. With two runs in, two men on the bases and one out, Billy shared in on his stomach and made a shoestring catch on Walker. He got up in time to throw to Barbare for a double play on Young at second.

Frank Frisch also located his home run range with the stick, his homer in two days. Frisch was a busy lad with his mates, as he slammed out a homer and two singles and drove in four runs. Davey Bancroft, batting just ahead of him, scored four times.

Watson scored a freak run for Boston in the fifth. He struck at a wild pitch for a third strike, reached base, and scored on Powell's triple.

BROWNS WIN IN OVERTIME GAME

LEADERS ARE BUNCHED IN BRITISH OPEN GOLF

By International News Service

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 24.—Jim Barnes of America and Ted Ray of England were tied for the lead in the British open golf championship today when nearly all the players had finished their third rounds.

The feature of the morning's play was the 72 shot by Walter Hagen, former American open champion, who was tied by Joe Kirkwood of Australia. These rounds put Hagen and Kirkwood in position to win the event if he succeeded for his final 36 second rounds.

Barnes had a 74 today, the same score he registered for his first and second rounds.

Josh Hutchison, the Chicago professional, although a native of St. Andrews, but his head when he faltered on the third round and took 78, and led the field at the end of the first two rounds, with a total of 147. His total of 224 for the three rounds placed him four shots behind Barnes and three behind Joe Kirkwood of Melbourne.

Kirkwood who has been playing on land and giving other of America professional golf the best of it, came through with a 73 the last round and showed perfect form on the way. He had no lucky breaks. He never criticized the British golf courses which were not to his liking, but he did say that he thought the greens were too slow.

The Australian is in a mighty fine position to win, and his play in other tournaments indicates that he will not crack in the last round.

Tom Kerrigan, one of the American contingent, is in the running for the prize money, but will be lucky to finish in the money.

Kerrigan's 13 card

American exhibition of having a number of golfers in the money was nipped when Horace Mayes ran his score up to 81 on the last hole. Mayes, who had won the first two rounds of the six, two rounds behind the leaders.

Bobby Jones, America's brilliant but erratic young Southern amateur, dropped out of the championship at the eleven hole today, when he got into trouble and tore up his card. Jones had taken 43 to go out and appeared discouraged and disgusted. He played yesterday in the first two rounds and with 153 for a total was leading the amateurs who qualified for the event. With Jones gone, it will be a fight between Jesse Weichfred of England, and Paul Hunter of America, for the honor of leading the amateurs.

STRENUOUS DAYS ARE AHEAD

Champion Outlines Rugged Program He Intends to Follow Out in Next Week or So

By Jack Dempsey

Heavyweight Champion of the World.

Copyright, 1921, by International News Service.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 24.—I am inviting a few newspaper men to be by my side all the time during the next week or so, and I will guarantee every day will be full of interest. I have signed with Promoter Kearns to box the better man in the ring at Jersey City on July 2.

I am in the best of condition now, and I will have plenty of time to get ready for the battle. I do not really think Bridges will be a hard proposition, but I have got to be ready every day until I step into the ring with him, and I will be ready.

My program is as follows: Today, rest; Saturday, stiff workouts with my heavy sparring partners; Sunday, workouts for speed with the smaller boys; Monday, rest; Tuesday, work with the middle and heavyweights; Wednesday, complete strenuous training by a lengthy work with the smaller boys and perhaps with one or two of the big fellows; Thursday, rest; Friday a brief jaunt on the road, perhaps, and a little muscle limbering exercise; Saturday, rest.

Started off yesterday with a spin of nine miles over the road to Absecon and return, and then I put in a few hours at the training camp. Was out on the road again this morning for a spin of ten miles, and then I rested a while before I went through the usual routine of exercises. I am feeling fine and am confident that I will be in the best of condition when the time comes.

Jim Corbett was down the other day and he came here heralded as a great pinochle player. Jim will inform anybody that he's the greatest outside of captivity. I remained him on the winner take all basis. Jim said, "sure, sure, I'll play you. This is going to be soft." Then he took the next train for New York, leaving behind the time the game was to start. Some of my partners I guess had slipped a little news to the cagey fellow which explains why he had to leave "in a hurry."

But, pals, I'm going to keep in shape for my fight with Bridges, and I'm going to keep the heavyweight title in America.

SCHOOL COACH IS MADE TARGET

Members of Somerville Board Would Dispense With Services of Athletic Mentor

Strelsa Has a Disturbing Quarter of an Hour With Herself

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

Dick Quarren, society idler and spendthrift, but clever and good looking, has fallen desperately in love with Strelsa Leeds. She has had one unfortunate matrimonial experience, and since her advent into New York high society has admirers by the score. Quarren meets her first at a masked ball given by Molly Wycherly, sons an hour out of her life on a wager and refrains from kissing her, as he tells her he is eager to do. He wins her interest, and obtains permission to call at her home. She tells him there can be nothing serious between them, but she asks him to always think well of her. She bids him good-by for two weeks. Much gossip is talked at Mrs. Sprowle's tea and Strelsa hears of Quarren's love affairs. She writes him on her way South and he replies, telling her of his prompt arrival in safety by first-guard a new motel. She answers this and tells him there seems to be a bond of sympathy between them. While Quarren is visiting on Langley, agent in South Carolina, falls seriously ill with fever, but is called down by Westguard for wasting his talents.

"Somebody must. I seem better fitted to do it than the next man."

"Yes," said Westguard with a wry face, "I fancy somebody must do unpleasant things—even among the lepers of Molokai. But I'd prefer real lepers."

"The social sort are sometimes sicker," laughed Quarren.

"I don't agree with you. . . . By the way, it's all off between my aunt and me."

"I'm sorry, Karl."

"I'm not. I don't want her money. She told me to go to the devil, and I said something similar. Do you know what she wants me to do?" he added angrily. "Give up writing, live on an allowance from her and marry Chrysee Lacy! What do you think of that for a cold-blooded and impertinent proposition? We had a fearful family row; he continued with satisfaction—"my aunt, my cousin and I. She told me to go to the devil, and I said something similar. Do you know what she wants me to do?" he added angrily, "Give up writing, live on an allowance from her and marry Chrysee Lacy! What do you think of that for a cold-blooded and impertinent proposition? We had a fearful family row,"

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

A man arrived in Washington yesterday whose work may mean a saving for every household in America, Charles G. Dawes, the new director of the budget.

* * *

President Harding has shown remarkable aptitude for picking the right men for responsible duties. Dawes promises to prove a big national "find." He will probably raise himself in quick order to the stature of a Hoover, a Hughes, a Mellon. Just as Goethals "made the dirt fly" at Panama, Dawes doubtless will make the financial fur fly at Washington as chief groom of the national budget.

The selection of this Chicago banker to install a budget system for the United States is hailed with intense satisfaction by the financial and business men, first, because this colossal task urgently needs to be done expertly, and, second, because they know of the record Dawes has earned as a financier, organizer, an administrator and a hustler.

He knows the Washington ropes and Washington financial ropes. For he held the position of comptroller of the currency. His handling of that office won him the presidency of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, and his achievements in this position and also in connection with the work of the United States Purchasing Board, organized in France during the war, have stamped him as an executive who knows how to get things done on a large scale expeditiously and efficiently.

There were certain men General Pershing drew around him whom he learned to depend upon implicitly. Dawes was one of them. Before Dawes became associated with the work, the arrangements for purchasing supplies for the American expeditionary forces in Europe were faulty, not to say chaotic. Dawes promptly tackled the whole complicated problem, enlisted as lieutenants a number of brainy young American business men, and very soon had things moving more smoothly. One form which recognition of this work took was his promotion to the rank of brigadier-general and he was also honored by the French government.

It was characteristic of Dawes to announce within an hour of his talk with President Harding yesterday that he had decided upon the man who would be drafted as his chief assistants. It was also characteristic of him to declare that he would conscript brainy business volunteers to help him in organizing real machinery for producing a national budget since, as he said, "only four men are given me under the law." No one might as well be handed a toothpick with which to tunnel Pike's Peak.

The new budget director's directness of method is reflected by his directness of speech. Inasmuch as the preparation of a national budget on business lines is recognized by financial and business men as a task of momentous importance to almost every man, woman and child in the land, it may be accepted as certain that Dawes will encounter little difficulty in getting most of the first calibre to join in this work without financial remuneration.

It has often been commented abroad that, while America has been able to produce some of the ablest business men that the world has ever known and to organize business enterprises of unparalleled magnitude and efficiency, she has failed to introduce business-like methods in the handling of her national expenditures. While taxes were so light as to burden no one, the demand for rigid supervising of estimates and expenditures was not keenly felt; but now that taxation has become so serious as to sap prosperity, the public are aroused to the imperative necessity for remedial measures. That President Harding means to fulfill his repeated promises of drastic economy and thorough going reform is demonstrated by his selection of a man of the type of Charles G. Dawes as master of the budget.

It is hoped that Dawes' military experience will not unfit him to employ tact and conciliation in dealing with Senators and Representatives and others interested in the preparation of the budget. A budget director should prove himself able to effect salutary economies and reforms without treading unduly heavily upon the toes of wire-pulling lawmakers anxious to ingratiate themselves with their constituents.

Also he should take pains to win the confidence of the public in the fullest measure in order that his recommendations may be supported by public opinion, and thus have weight when political opposition may be encountered.

* * *

Where expenditures reach four and a half thousand million dollars a year, the institution of scientific, business-like budgetary methods should effect savings totalling hundreds of millions of dollars, and thus lighten the taxation load per family anywhere from $25 to $50 a year.

All of us will watch with keen interest the activities of Mr. Dawes and his staff.

EXPECT REVIVAL IN AUTUMN

Shrewd Investors Believe Crop Harvesting Will Impart Life to Industry

By C. B. EVANS.

(Copyright, 1921.)

Chicago, June 24.—The trend of events has not yet decided to reverse itself and will doubtless take its own time. A stream running down a long slope usually meets obstructions and backs up a little, or something big gets in its way and there is a back water which floods the country and drowns the cattle in the vicinity, the "cattle" in this instance being the shorts in the stock market.

The output of many classes of merchandise is so small and supplies in the hands of consumers and distributors so reduced that for merely current needs there must be before long a considerable demand.

"Something must be done" to rescue business is the cry of commentators and statesmen alike.

AWAIT AUTUMN BOOM.

In the main the "something that must be done" will come of itself through exhaustion of supplies in the shape of a natural and spontaneous revival in the Autumn. The Summer season will have to be given up as a bad job, but the harvesting of crops and the stilling of a few present troubles will impart life to several lines of industry.

People must have clothes and implements, and even the blowing out of fires on the streets suggests a new supply of fuel.

As for securities the only reason for buying seems to be that prices are lower than in normal times.

"You can neither buy nor sell a bond" was the caustic comment of a dealer early this week. Today, after a scouting tour, however, he admitted that he did a bit of trading over the counter. Moreover, he declared that bond issues are being held in leash till after the July interest and dividend payments are made.

AWAIT "GOOD" THING.

Doubtless it will be found there are many pockets full of money waiting for a good thing to present itself.

At present investors refuse to see the good side of affairs, probably because it is so much smaller than the bad side. But they will soon learn. Roebuck Company, whose stock has been kicking around the street at low prices for a long time, has paid off the obligations $20,000,000 since January 1.

Also take into account the added side of dividend suspensions or reductions which are coming along this week as numerously as ever. Passing a dividend is a credit, not a discredit, to a corporation when that corporation is not strong in cash and quite able.

In many instances it is entirely justifiable to pay a dividend out of surplus, but working capital should be kept in good supply. In former years it was a common thing for corporations to borrow money for dividend purposes.

IMPROVE PRINCIPLES.

One does not see much of that sort of thing in these days, which is evidence of better principles and better management than those of "the olden times."

One certainly cannot criticise the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company for reducing its dividend. It is reported on good authority that its net profits last month amounted to only $250,000, whereas $1,000,000 or more was required to break even. This is a company which has not been in active business long enough to have accumulated great resources.

Sometimes it seems as if we were getting into the good old dullness and cheap money that has uniformly preceded great booms. We never guard ourselves against any such expectation. True it is easier to get money now than in the ordinary course of borrowing than a few months ago. Call loans in New York are down to 5 per cent. and the high time rate has been reduced to 6. But security values are so low as to make for rigid supervising of estimates and expenditures was not keenly felt; but now that taxation has become so serious as to sap prosperity, the public are aroused to the imperative necessity for remedial measures. That President Harding means to fulfill his repeated promises of drastic economy and thorough going reform is demonstrated by his selection of a man of the type of Charles G. HEAT RUINS HAY CROPS IN N. H.

Manchester, June 12.—Workmen on three sections of the new highway construction here were obliged to lay off because of the heat, which reached 96 in the shade. The hot spell follows a long drouth that has ruined the hay crop throughout the State, according to reports from the farming districts. Trout streams are dry, and in some sections in the southern portions, and fish and game wardens have been cutting channels to permit the trout to escape from the pools.

Denied by Sears, Roebuck

One of the rumors which has depressed Sears, Roebuck & Co. to its lowest quotation in years is that this great mail order house contemplates new financing. Julius Rosenwald, Vice-President A. H. Loeb, "is absolutely ridiculous. Already over $2,-000,000 of the $7,000,000 notes due October 15 have been taken up and since January 1 our obligations have been reduced about $20,000,000 with expectations that we will do even better in the next six months."

B. & M. Asks for U. S. Loan

The Boston & Maine management has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a government loan of $3,049,000 to run for fifteen years. An security offer bonds secured by a general mortgage upon all its properties and franchise. It says that if the road is not aided in behalf of the road its ability to provide adequate service will be seriously impaired.

Latest Copper Sales

It is reported that some small lots of copper have been sold recently as low as 12¾ cents a pound. The leading selling agencies are quoting to regular customers 13 cents a pound for nearby shipments and 13¼ for July.

MOTOR ISSUES ARE HIGHER

Steels, Equipments and Specialties Advance; Rails Steady and Oils Irregular

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at the end of the morning, out a little below the best level. Motor issues continued to hold the lead, but steels, equipments and most other stocks were higher. Oils were irregular. Mexican Petroleum was up more than two points at its best, but had lost all but a fraction of the gain. Trading was of less volume. First hour transactions totaled about 175,000 shares. The price movement was due mostly to covering of shorts. Call money opened at 5 per cent. Foreign exchange rates were lower, demand sterling declining 1 1-4 cents to 3.72 3-4 at the start.

Among strongest stocks were Submarin, Woolen common, International Combustion, Goodrich, which sold at a new 1921 low, corn Products, Crucible, Studebaker, Republic Iron and Steel, American. Most lotes were fractional.

IRREGULAR AT OPENING.

The price movement at the opening was irregular and quiet and dull throughout, with an unusual number of issues unchanged. The early earliest price movements. Big traders were a little doubtful for awhile as to what trend ought to develop and were disposed to feel out the market before increasing commitments. Petroleum was irregular. It is rumored around Wall Street that Standard Oil interests are rendering stocks of this close some support. Tires were weak. U. S. Rubber and Goodrich opening at new lows for the year. After a few minutes motors advanced and under their leadership the whole list developed a better tone. In fact, the market was strong before the end of an hour. General Asphalt did the best among specialties. International Paper, Sears Roebuck and Famous Players advanced from one to two points early in the session. Rails were quiet and Reading made the largest gain.

MORE DIVIDENDS PASSED.

Within twenty hours there had been several additions to the list of corporations that have passed dividends. The usual July quarterly payment on Sumatra was declared. Tobacco companies are said to be among the few that are making money. The passing of the Quaker Oats dividend is said to reflect the determination of conservative corporations not to pay anything to stockholders that has been earned in the previous year, owing to fare no better than employes who have been subjected to pay reductions. They have doubtless been pressed to this course by the desire of the banks for more liquidity. The industry nor trade has revived at this date to the extent forecast in the Spring, but has changed for the predicted, but lower rates have not been as much of a stimulant as was hoped. The situation is not likely to be greatly improved. The reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve system will stand this week at 60.4 per cent. against 56.8 a week ago and 42.6 per cent. year ago. The total only reached 13,500,000 tons. At present it is 60 per cent. less than pre-war consumption and less than one-third of last year's total estimate. Output was 32,347,863 tons.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, June 24.—A much better tone prevailed at the opening of the cotton market here this morning, with prices 10 to 14 points higher than yesterday's close. There was a good demand from spot houses, based on a firmer feeling in Liverpool and reports that the mills in New England Liverpool traded on both sides of the market, but the buying was the heavier early. After the start the list reacted slightly under selling pressure by interests said to be anxious to see the rise. The setback, however, was short lived. The market closed steady at a net advance of 12.53 points. January 12.46, March 12.87, May 13.15.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, June 24.—July wheat opened steady and September was up ⅞. July and September corn were up ½ and ⅝ and September oats. Opening prices were: Wheat, July 1.23¾, Sept. 1.25¾; corn, July 51¾, Sept. 54¼; oats, July 33¾, Sept. 35¾; pork, July 38.75, Sept. 39.00; lard, July 13.60, Sept. 13.90; ribs, July 13.60, Sept. 13.90.

New York Curb Market

New York, June 24.—The Curb market continued steady and quiet today. Gilliland opened up one point on the Goldfield Merger old sold from 120 to 122. Rettlinghouse Tobacco was in good demand around 12.

LITTLE CHANGE IN BOSTON

Local Market Listless and Narrow All the Forenoon; Curb Was Irregular

At the opening the Boston market had no trend, a few issues being off, but the great majority selling at unchanged quotations. During the morning it became irregular. This was due chiefly to the belief that could be offered to the advance in New York. Trading here was listless and very narrow. American Telephone was among the most active issues, but after recovering a trifling loss at the opening went little price variation. Coppers were as dull as ever and rails were not in evidence, excepting New Haven. Swift & Co. was the only packing issue to fluctuate in early trading. No specialty was prominent. Point or more losses were shown by United Drug first preferred, Aetna Tack and Mexican Wooler common. Mexican Investment advanced a point.

Small losses were shown by Osceola, United Fruit, West End, National Leather, Swift & Co. Fractional gains were made by Lawrence & American Woolen preferred, Boston Low Boiler, Edison Electric, New England Telephone, International Cement and Waldorf.

MIXED CURB MOVEMENT.

The Curb had a mixed price movement, but it was downward in the main. Empire Food advanced to a new record high on the sale of twenty shares. Trading was very quiet. Comparatively active issues were Goldfield Merger, Rhode Island Coal stocks at the start included Boston Montana, Eureka, Hecla Divide, Ruby and Tonopah Belmont. Strong ones were Acme Coal, Crystal, First National and Verde Mines.

At the end of an hour Crystal was off 1 cent at 24 cents, Daddy 2 cent at 6 cents and Hecla Divide 2 cents at 7 cents. Boston & Montana had recovered its loss.

DIVIDENDS WAIT FOR PRIORITY

No Payments to Prudential Depositors Until Status of State Claim Is Decided

Declaring that no dividend can be paid until the question of the Attorney of the State's claim is decided, Bank Commissioner Allen has given a statement to all commercial creditors of the closed Prudential Trust Company on the liquidating proceedings to June 23.

Claims of the Commonwealth and various individuals for full payment of their deposits amounting to $113,612.92, the commissioner says in the statement.

With the cash on hand in the commercial department totalling $442,-831.42, payment of a dividend at present is not feasible, he declares.

Another important question yet to be decided by the court, the commissioner says, is that of the moneys paid to dealing with the provision of the taking of cash from the savings department for the commercial department contrary to law.

According to Commissioner Allen the facts on this question have not yet been presented by Charles B. Hill, the master appointed by the Supreme Judicial Court.

BANKERS TO GO ON OUTING

National Shawmut Officers Will Make Merry for 5 Days in New York

A party of New England bankers and their families, to the number of six hundred, will be entertained in New York at a "June party" outing from June 25 to June 29.

The trip has been arranged by the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, through the courtesy of the management of the Hotel Commodore. The bank has extended an invitation to the officers of its several hundred New England correspondent banks to be guests on this occasion.

An extensive program has been arranged for the entertainment of the visiting bankers, including a reception by Mayor Hylan, and a trip up the Hudson River through the Harlem ship canal and Harlem River.

Special arrangements are made to various city institutions and the guests will have an opportunity of studying government methods in the handling of immigrants at Ellis Island. At present headquarters will be on an exhibition drill, showing how New York policemen are trained, and on Governor's Island the New York police headquarters.

On Monday evening a formal dinner and ball will be tendered the visiting bankers at the Hotel Commodore. Vice-President Calvin Coolidge will be the principal speaker at this dinner. Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright of New York, Jon E. Hedges and F. A. Wallis, United States Commissioner of Immigration at New York, will also address the visitors.

On Tuesday the entire party will be taken by special train to the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club at Rye, N. Y. The feature of Tuesday's program will be a golf tournament for visiting bankers.

Australia for New Anglo-Jap Pact

DOOM BASE AT NEW LONDON

Conferees Reject Senate Plan for Submarine Headquarters in Connecticut

Washington, June 24.—The Senate and House conferees on the navy appropriation bill agreed to strike from the measure the Senate provision for a submarine base at New London, Ct.

The Senate provision for the creation of a bureau of aeronautics in the Navy Department was agreed to.

The disposition of the Pacific coast and Pacific ocean naval projects by the conferees was described by Senator Poindexter, Republican, of Washington, as a "give and take proposition," the Senate conferees having receded to the "scrapping" of certain of them in order to save the remainder.

All of the controversial features of the bill having been disposed of, including that involving the size of the navy's personnel, the conferees settled down to consideration of conference report, which Representative Kelley, Republican, of Michigan, chairman of the House conferees, hopes to be able to submit to the conferees today.

FIRE DESTROYS PRINTING PLANT

Rumford Press Buildings at Concord, N. H., Wiped Out; Estimated Loss $100,000

Concord, N. H., June 24.—Fire completely destroyed the North End plant of the Rumford Press here early today, the loss being estimated at more than $100,000.

The Atlantic Monthly, St. Nicholas, the Country Magazine and other publications of a similar nature are printed by the Rumford Press, and the current editions were nearing completion when the flames were discovered.

The bindery, shipping and mailing departments were wiped out, and falling walls demolished valuable machinery on the lower floors.

The blaze is believed to have originated in the elevator shaft and had gained great headway before it was discovered by employes on the night force.

No hint of the cause of the fire has been obtained as yet, but an investigation is being made.

LIFESAVER IN NOVEL ACT

Conroy and Diving Girls Attraction at New Strand Theatre, Revere Beach

John F. Conroy, noted lifesaver, and his diving models, will open an engagement at the new Strand Theatre on the Boulevard at Revere Beach tomorrow.

Conroy was for ten years physical director of the Municipal Gymnasium in Boston and has a record of having rescued 127 persons from drowning. He has the distinction of wearing the medal awarded by Congress as well as the Carnegie Humane and many other awards for bravery.

Conroy's act promises something new in aquatic offerings. Instead of being dressed entirely for diving, swimming and acrobatic feats, the girls in the act indulge in dancing, singing and beautiful poses.

Older People Read This

George Ade lectures old fathers and mothers in Cosmopolitan.

Think More About Yourselves. A First-Class Sermon by George Ade for Old American Fathers and Mothers. They Need It. The "Flapper" and Tadpole.

Old people in this country think too much about the young, not enough about THEMSELVES. They sacrifice themselves in old age, that young people may be able to squander later in their youth.

"If the all-wise Arranger had meant for you to look out of the same window all the time, he wouldn't have given you legs."

That is an extract from George Ade's sermon for old people, printed in the Cosmopolitan Magazine for July. More than a million old fathers and mothers will be better for reading that sermon.

Those that HAVE worked are entitled to play. AMUSEMENT should be also for the old, not all and only for the young.

George Ade puts his wisdom in the modern American slang of youth, but it is none the less GENUINE WISDOM. And it is a satisfaction to put his advice here where many old citizens, male and female, will see it.

The devotion due to fathers and mothers and respect for them is the most important thing in extreme youth. It is a false idea that only boys and girls are entitled to happiness, gaiety, sunshine, amusement. Don't concentrate too much on what Ade calls "the flapper with the concealed ears, and the dancing tadpole."

Here is another extract from George Ade's old peoples' sermon in Cosmopolitan:

"We need in this country many night schools for old people. It is time to declare for the rights and privileges of the passing generation. The world and the fullness thereof do not belong entirely to the flapper with the concealed ears and the dancing tadpole whose beltline is just below the shoulder-blades."

"If you have earned a vacation, take it," says Ade. The old DESERVE vacations, they should HAVE them. Instead of worrying everlastingly about providing for the young, in the words of George Ade, say to the young folks:

"Dear Offspring: Go out and get it, the same as I did."

Old folks, learn something from Thales, as wise a man as ever lived, born more than twenty-five hundred years ago. He warned the Ionians in Egypt that an eclipse of the sun was coming and told when it would come. He divided the year into 365 days. That seems easy now, but how would you do it, if you never had heard of the year's length, or of months, etc. He established geometry on a scientific basis, was the first to shorten the road to mathematical results by means of algebra, recorded the apparent strange movements of the sun.

In addition to many wise teachings and discoveries he, Thales, chief of the seven wise men of Greece, knew enough to enjoy himself in his old age, and he knew enough not to spoil his own son. Not wishing to be bothered with unnecessary money, he gave it to those he trusted to be used wisely, with orders to give it to his son, in case the son proved to be a fool; otherwise to use it usefully for public purposes. He felt probably that if he had created a fool in his son, he ought to make up for it by leaving him money.

Fathers and mothers, do not be afraid, as Ade puts it: "To exchange your cold currency for some new sensation." The young have many opportunities before them; you, the older people, have few. Do not ignore George Ade's farewell warning:

"Take your vacations while you can get them. Eventually, you may not be able to name the spots you are going to visit next."

In enjoying themselves, considering themselves as important, and not old lumber to be put on the shelf, the old render service to youth. Youth needs to be taught respect for age, and is usually NOT taught that, in this country.

Youth needs to be taught a little self-denial, and in America, most foolishly, youth is taught that IT should have everything, and old age stand aside.

If you happen to know any of George Ade's "flappers with concealed ears" or "dancing tadpoles with beltlines just below the shoulder blades," get a copy of the Cosmopolitan Magazine for July and cut out George Ade's sermon on the front page, which you will find on Page 25, and put it where the young "flapper" or "tadpole" will see it.

An extraordinary magazine is the Cosmopolitan, regularly putting before its readers the work of the ablest, most interesting writers and authors of the whole world.

Interesting are the various stories in the current number for July, but more important and valuable than all is George Ade's advice to old people. "Take your vacations while you can get them. The planet you are now visiting may be the only one you ever see. Even if you get a transfer, the next one may not have any Grand Canyon or Niagara Falls."

Instead of spoiling the young with your own self-denial, SPOIL YOURSELF, and enjoy yourself for awhile."

Fare to Nantasket

Somebody has suggested that the fare on the Nantasket boats, now fifty cents on Sundays and holidays, should be reduced so that the enormous sums of money which the State has expended in the development of the beautiful seashore at Nantasket may be accessible to all our people.

The fare on ordinary days is but thirty-five cents and it is enjoyed by those who are better able to pay fifty cents than those who are called upon to pay it on Sunday. This is true and some adjustment of the fares ought to be made so that the poor people may enjoy Nantasket more freely. Whether any power lies in the State or city to compel the reduction of fares on Sundays and holidays and whether if there is such a power, it ought to be exercised, we do not venture an opinion. Maybe the financial condition of the steamboat company and other circumstances would make the readjustment unfair to the company, but if it would not be unfair to the company it would not be unfair to the commuters.

In any event the question ought to be investigated, for the ride to Nantasket on a hot Sunday or holiday is beautiful and refreshing and the attractions at Nantasket delight hosts of our people.

And Do It Now!

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

TWO years and seven months after the fighting ended, American soldiers are still held in Europe, occupying the country of an "enemy" that now wants to be our friend. The American people have made plain in many ways that they want those boys back. Must they use their fists?

First Aerial Lifeboat

By Universal Service

LONDON, June 24.—The first lifeboat of the air, which has been built with great secrecy, is to be launched soon.

After the official trials it will go through a series of tests with the fleet. If it proves to be satisfactory, a large number of the craft on a much larger scale will be constructed.

The design is the outcome of three years of secret research and tests. The flying lifeboat will be able to reach a vessel in distress at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour, and it is claimed that it will be able to ride through the roughest storm with the confident safety of an Atlantic liner. The boats are able to taxi along the water.

Their seaworthiness is to be tested by sending the first experimental ship out with the navy, where it is to remain at sea for several days without any "mother ship."

The wing span of the one now nearing completion is 140 feet. Safety in the most violent sea will come from the resilience of the hull, which is in one piece from stem to stern. When this hull strikes a huge wave it gives way slightly in much the same way that a pneumatic tire does when it strikes an obstacle on the road.

When Cupid Wounds

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

THEY say the world is round, and yet
I often think it square,
So many little hurts we get
From corners here and there.
But one sad truth in life I've found
While journeying to the West:
The only folks who really wound
Are those we love the best.

The man you thoroughly despise
Can rouse your wrath, 'tis true;
Annoyance in your heart will rise
At things mere strangers do.
But those are only passing ills;
This fact all lives will prove.
The smarting wound which aches and thrills
Is dealt by hands we love.

The choicest garb and sweetest grace
Are oft to strangers shown;
The careless mein, the frowning face,
Are given to our own.
We flatter those we scarcely know;
We please the fleeting guest,
And deal full many a thoughtless blow
To those who love us best.

Love does not grow on every tree,
Nor true hearts yearly bloom.
Alas for those who only see
This truth across the tomb.
But soon or late the fact grows plain
To all through sorrow's test:
The only ones who give us pain
Are those we love the best.

Air Propeller

Word now comes from Europe of the development of a small water craft, driven by an air propeller, which is said to be "all the rage" at various Summer resorts.

In general appearance, the boat is an ordinary canoe, about eighteen feet long and something like three feet wide, with flat bottom. The novelty consists in an air propeller, modeled after that of the airplane, adjusted at the stern, and screened for safety.

The craft is said to develop about ten miles an hour and to be capable of carrying five passengers. Lightly loaded, it can skim over shallow places, drawing only about three inches of water, and it is driven with sufficient force to cut through lily pads and even soft mud with facility.—July Hearst's International.

ADVANTAGE OF BEING HOPEFUL ALWAYS

By Beatrice Fairfax.

"THE Pessimist always loses," said my friend, the Sage. "The Pessimist says: 'Of course, it's bright and shiny today. But, tomorrow's a half-holiday and it's sure to rain then just when I want to go fishing.' So even if tomorrow is a fine day, he hasn't more than tomorrow. And if it is raining, he has nothing.

"Now the Optimist says: 'It's a fine day today. I'm sure we'll have good weather tomorrow.' So if his hopes are realized he gets both today and tomorrow. And even if the good weather doesn't hold—he's had today through his hopes.

"The Optimist always wins."

"But," objected the Cynic, "What's the use of fooling yourself with vain hopes. Isn't it a tragic thing to find yourself disappointed over and over again? Doesn't a man loose his grip on every thing after he has deluged himself often enough?"

Hoping for Tomorrow

"I don't see why," smiled the Sage. "He still has today if he spends it hoping for tomorrow. And if his hopes are never justified and he has nevertheless gone on hoping he has had something. If he hadn't even trusted that something better lay around the corner, he would indeed have had nothing.

That's true, isn't it?

Don't you know men and women who, in spite of having nothing material to make their lives warm and glowing have kept themselves aloof from sorrow and disappointment by believing that better fortune was soon to be theirs?

And, on the other hand haven't you many a friend who deprives his life of all illumination by drenching his days in gloom and insisting that he's never had any luck, so why should he be fool enough to relight and treat him kindly?

I know a man who—if he were the only example of courage that had ever come under my observation—would still keep my confidence in the power of faith alive. He is a victim of faith without works will hold. This man has met with misfortunes as thick and fast that ever befell any man. He has most had come to believe that he had merely to touch a venture in order to have it turn into a misadventure.

Efforts Misspent

From youth his bubbles had a way of pricking themselves. His efforts seemed misdirected and misspent. He failed over and over again. But he went on believing in himself when everyone else thought he had a "jinx" on all he touched. And he went on working to make his belief come true. From twenty to fifty he knew poverty and failure. For thirty years he spent from less to less.

Finally e was stripped of everything but his two hands, his active brain and his dogged failure to know when he was beaten. Even his health had given way under the struggle and the lack of results.

Now he is a man fifty-five and he has a dear little home in the country and a car to take him to his flourishing business. What did it? His optimism. He always felt sure that his next effort would work out better—and at last one did.

There is a basic truth in this Sage's cheery:

"Optimism can't lose."

To the Editor

Auto Menace

Editor Boston American:

I would like to make my feelings known about the great number of persons who are slain by automobiles. There are many different opinions being given how to avoid or curtail so many accidents. My plan would be to make lawful just one way into and one way out of every town and city, and then at no greater speed than ten miles an hour.

A Mr. Vernon is complaining about carelessness of parents, but let him bear in mind that every mother's child has a right to play in front of his own front door. Now, as the auto has often been branded the "murder machine," I herewith suggest for your consideration the following: In case there is a killing, and the driver on the occasion is given a fair, full inquiry, and after full investigation is found guilty, let him or her take the full consequences and be brought to criminal trial for murder.

I am glad that there are some human beings left still who do respect human life and have the courage to say so. I, for one, would be quite willing to help Registrar Goodwin in every effort to bring the frightful menace to some sane end.

SPIRITUAL VICTORY IS ONE THAT COUNTS

VICTORY, whether for individual, nation or cause—to be real and lasting—must be spiritual victory.

Such victory has no victim. It robs no one of anything to which he is entitled, wins for justice and truth, is impersonal and leaves no sting.

Two great religions annually commemorate just such spiritual victory — the Jews with their Passover and Christianity with Easter.

To speak of the earlier first, the Jews celebrate with the Passover the anniversary of their emancipation from Egyptian slavery and of their return to the ancestral Land of Promise.

For three and four thousand years now the Israelites and their descendants have been rejoicing over their birth as a nation under marvellously dramatic circumstances.

Whatever your reading of the biblical narrative, a very impressive marvel is the survival of those Israelites! Periodically their enemies have thought them conquered. Vainly, through the ages, men have tried to exterminate this little people.

Jews' Survival

You need nothing more metaphysical to explain the Jews' survival or to understand why he is more potently alive today than ever—nothing more than that, unconsciously and consciously, the Jew was consecrated to a spiritual ideal.

The idea of a perfectible man growing toward Godliness has been for the Jew literally a life saver, preserving him and enabling him to be on hand to witness the world's progressive victory for that unescapable impulse and drive of our common human nature.

This truth gives universal meaning and interest to the Jew's Passover—the while the Jew himself derives an inspiration and illustrator of spiritual victory.

So with the Christian Eastertide —another proclamation of spiritual victory.

Too many words have been spoken about Jesus and Christ. Too much disputation has caused dissension among His very votaries; they have hated one another even when professing love for Him. By their lives and their deeds—and by their failure to do—Christian peoples and Christian persons have, through the ages, practically denied the Christ whom they have acclaimed.

Christian Idea

And yet the Christ-idea of Peace and Good Will continues steadily to win its inevitable triumphs. Let no cynic deny this, because of the superficial seeming of our warring world. This spiritual ideal has never been so sure of its hold upon the hearts of men as it is today, even after such horror of hatred and such holocaust of war as the world had never witnessed before.

In the dim future, when the nations which took part in that stupid, suicidal struggle are recalled as only so many names, Jesus will still survive as Teacher, Symbol and Inspiration of Spiritual Victory.

That is, only spiritual values count—for individual, nation or cause.

In this connection, it is gratifying to recall the high spirit with which America entered the World War. President Wilson uttered the spiritual identity of our nation when we had no selfish ends to serve, no desire for conquest or dominion, no wish for material compensation, but we were fighting only for democracy and the universal dominion of right.

Without Entanglements

Because our allies have, since the signing of the armistice, disillusioned us by returning to their old international games of greed and grab, the American nation has signified its intention of proceeding with continued practical idealism, but without the entanglement of permanent alliance with those powers that talk and act in terms foreign to our national life.

Let other nations snatch temporary triumphs and short-lived trails of victory, if they will. America, reading the lesson of history, knows that our own victory, in order to count and be lasting, must be made and kept spiritual—a succession of triumphs for democracy, both within our land and in our relations of the earth.

A solemn preachment—to which the spirit moves the writer to add a smiling equivalent, in terms of an original version of a familiar proverb: HE LAUGHS BEST WHOSE LAUGH LASTS.
